Press Release

Jungle Source Launches Internal Value Based Behavior Program

TACIT values have been developed to align employees, increase productivity, and create a company-wide set of values and expectations for how Jungle Source works together with their clients.

Pleasanton, CA. July 22, 2013: Jungle Source, Inc, a leading provider of background screening and drug testing services, today announced the launch of its internal value based behavior program, TACIT. Jungle Source teaches its employees TACIT values that align each valued team member with the tools needed to provide each client with superior customer service. TACIT is used as an acronym, with each letter having its own clear definition.

T is for Trust, a bond among individuals to enhance working relationships in order to deliver accurate high-quality services.

A is for Accuracy, the result that assures confidence in our products and processes.

C is for Compliance, adhering to all governing laws and regulations.

I is for Integrity, the commitment to ethical principles with respect to all relationships and the data we provide.

T is for Teamwork, the collaborative effort necessary to improve processes and achieve common goals.

“It is important to have a value-based program internally, as we are growing leaps and bounds,” said Brook Parker, Chief Operating Officer of Jungle Source, Inc., “Our focus has always been what TACIT defines, and creating a formalized program for current employees as well as future candidates is important to me. Jungle Source, Inc. represents many clients across the U.S., and if we adopt a values-driven culture, not only will we be successful, but our clients will find success as well.”
